

ST. PETERSBURG, FL, December 21, 2012 – Watching a world-class automobile race from the comfort of a private yacht is the sort of exclusive experience that most people only dream of. In certain waters, that experience is mainly reserved for royalty, oil barons or personalities from lifestyles of the rich and famous. Not in America. Not at the Honda Grand Prix of St. Petersburg.

The Yacht Club program, truly unique on the continent, returns to the Honda Grand Prix of St. Petersburg, offering ticket-holders an experience that money alone cannot buy. Located on specially-built private docks in the St. Pete South Yacht Basin, the Yacht Club offers some of the best views of the Honda Grand Prix of St. Petersburg.

“There’s no other race track in North America that offers an experience quite like this,” said Kim Green, Co-Owner, Chairman and CEO of the Honda Grand Prix of St. Petersburg. “Watching world-class racing from the picturesque St. Petersburg Harbor is an unrivalled experience. There are many great viewpoints at the Honda Grand Prix, and still many more in the INDYCAR family of racetracks, but watching the season starter from the Yacht Club has got to be at the very top of that list.”

The Yacht Club offers benefits including complimentary water taxi, VIP or grandstand tickets, paddock passes, closed-circuit video feed of on-track activity and access to all event sites. Pricing starts at $4,000 for a 30-79 foot slip and $9,500 for an 80-150 foot slip. The full details are available at bit.ly/V78j6W .
